

Sun blooms for Seavington show

VILLAGERS and visitors made the most of the fine weather at the weekend and took the chance to wander around the annual Seavington Flower Show.

Held in Seavington Millennium Hall on Saturday, the show opened to the public during the afternoon and included a variety of exhibits.

Entries ranged from roses, pansies, dahlias and gladioli to potatoes, onions, beans and tomatoes.

Homemade chutney, preserves and cakes were also on the day's menu.

And younger exhibitors had the chance to show off their skills by creating, among other things, a garden on a plate, a flower arrangement in an egg-cup, a seed packet design and a decorated pebble.

While the judging took place in the morning, the awards were presented towards the end of the afternoon by Bob Ash.

And as well as the prize-winning exhibits, there were also refreshments for visitors to enjoy.

1998

JAM HOT: Roy Sibley with the first prize he won for his homemade jam at Seavington Flower Show. With him are his wife, show chairman, Julie, and show secretary and vice-chairman, Anne and David Wills.